The Rights and Contributions of Indigenous Peoples

"We've all been living on broken ugly systems built on genocide and slavery. Strengthening and empowering others, in whatever capacity, also helps the self."

- Red Haircrow

Indigenous Peoples' Day is this month. It is a holiday that celebrates and honors American Indians for their resistance and resilience in surviving genocide and oppression in the Americas. Although the ugly systems of the past still permeate our present, we find comfort and inspiration in the words of Red Haircrow, a Chiricahua Apache/Cherokee and African American writer, filmmaker, and psychologist, as he signals how we can change the ways those systems may impact our future. We stand in solidarity with Indigenous people and will work to strengthen our collective resistance against oppression and social injustices in our current sociopolitical context. For this month's newsletter, we selected two books that honor the culture, spirit, and humanity of American Indians. The themes in the books we highlighted this month reflect our commitment to community, compassion, peace, and dialogue.

“Civilization is a method of living, an attitude of equal respect for all men”

-Jane Addams
Older Reader

This circular novel chronicles the daily life of Omakayas, a seven-year old Ojibwa girl who lives on the Island of Lake Superior during the mid-eighteen hundreds. Although Omakayas’ family faces hardships and grief, Erdrich uses each opportunity to shed light on how their cultural ways of knowing nature and living in peace provide a sense of comfort for their community and hope for their future.

Classroom Connection

Creating multimodal reading responses provides an opportunity to express layered and complex understanding of text that summaries, end of unit questions, or response journals do not always capture. Using the digital platform StoryboardThat, Elizabeth Pedro demonstrates the potential of graphic panels to visualize vocabulary, create character profiles, and explore themes in the story. Try it out in your school community and share what you create with us!
Younger Reader Book Review

The Choctaw people live on one side of the River Bok Chitto; plantation owners and enslaved African Americans live on the other. A secret friendship between a Choctaw girl and an African American boy is the first link in a chain of humanity that spirits the boy’s family across the river to freedom. This tale is a tribute to the Choctaws and Indians of every nation who aided African Americans running from slavery.

Classroom Connection

The power of storytelling among enslaved and Choctaw people is a cultural practice embedded in both communities. To explore the themes in the book, we invite you to consider how digital tools can amplify this cultural practice though the layering of sound, color, image, and movement with content about the story.

Using Powtoon, your students can create animated stories that explore their families commitment to working for peace and social justice, just like the Choctaw community in the book.

To the right is a screenshot of a Powtoon animated video about Crossing Bok Chitto: A Choctaw Tale of Friendship & Freedom.
Theme Resources & Connections

Resources to use with Children:

Choctaw Nation

Native American Facts for Kids: Website created by non-profit, Native Languages of the Americas!, who focus on preserving and promoting American Indian Languages. This link is to the fact sheets they curated about American Indians.

An Indigenous Peoples’ History of the United States for Young People (Dunbar-Ortiz, adapted by Mendoza & Reese)

Newsela Collection of current events for classroom:

- Native Americans Take Control of their Story
- History of US Government’s Relationship with Native Americans

Resources for Educators:

American Indian Library Association

American Indians in Children's Literature by Debbie Reese

Recorded Lecture: Dutch New York Histories sponsored by Schomburg Center

Montana Indians: Their History and Location

Created by the Montana Office of Public Instruction

Ojibwa by Loriene Roy

Legends of America: Website exploring history and legends in the US.

Native American Oral Storytelling and History: Seth Fairchild

---

In the News

October 18 Jane Addams Children’s Book Award Ceremony

The Jane Addams Peace Association is delighted to invite you to our 67th Annual Award Ceremony of the Jane Addams Children’s Book Award

October 18, 2019 • 1:00 pm – 3:00 pm

777 United Nations Plaza, 2nd Floor (44th & 1st), NYC

Join us for a celebration of the 2019 Addams Award winners and honorees. Come meet and talk with the authors and illustrators of this year’s commended books, including Jacqueline Woodson, Rafael López, Jewell Parker Rhodes, Wade Hudson, Cheryl Willis Hudson, Veera Hiranandani, and Jessica Love. Enjoy a reception and an opportunity for book signing after formal presentation of the awards. All the award books will be available for purchase. This event is free and open to all. Reservations are not needed. Please come and enjoy! We gratefully acknowledge support for the Award and this ceremony from the Hastings Peace and Justice Fund.

October 19 BookFest Bank Street

October 25-27 13th Regional IBBY Conference

We would love to know how you are engaging students with these titles in your classrooms and schools. Please share artifacts using the hashtag #JACBA
Upcoming Themes

November 2019: Exploring the History of Voting Rights
Older Reader: Lillian's right to vote by Jonah Winter
Younger Reader: With Courage and Cloth: Winning the Fight for a Woman's Right to Vote by Ann Bausum

December 2019: Kids as Agents of Social Change
Older Reader: The Color of My Words by Lynn Joseph
Younger Reader: Brave Girl: Clara and the Shirtwaist Makers’ Strike of 1909, written by Michelle Markel and illustrated by Melissa Sweet

Submit your curriculum connections for one of the books in the upcoming themed issues. Send materials with brief 1 paragraph explanation to price-dennis@tc.edu

Contributing Editors
Contributing editors: Dahlia Hamza Constantine, (Teachers College, Columbia), Detra Price-Dennis (Teachers College, Columbia), and Emily Smith-Buster (Austin Independent School District)